BRYAN IN MORNING.

He Wants to Get Out of the Lockup.

Pete Bryan, of near Creal Springs, Ill., asked for another continuance in the police court. He is charged with carrying a pistol concealed on Thanksgiving eve, and spent Thanksgiving in tears in the lockup. Yesterday he asked for a continuance and it was granted until today. To-day he wanted another continuance and Judge Sanders asked him what he expected to gain by further delay. "It's considerable of a disadvantage to the city to have to feed you for a week," his honor stated.

Bryan explained that he had a team here which he wanted to dispose of in order to take an appeal and execute bond. His team was left at the wagon yard the day he went out for a time. He was formerly offered $200 for the team. It is said, and since he has been in the lockup attempted to sell it for $75. He takes his imprisonment very hard, and claims that it is the first time he was ever arrested. The case was continued until Monday.

Owing to the extremely bad weather, the attendance at the book reception on Thanksgiving night was not so large as would otherwise have been the case. Nevertheless, a very pleasant company assembled and a delightful time was had within, while the elements raged without. About sixty well selected volumes were added to the library. Quite a number of persons who could not attend the reception have sent in books since that time, and others will be as gladly received as were these.

It is now the intention of the women's committee to repeat the reception about St. Valentine's day, when it is hoped to have more favorable conditions. A meeting of the women's committee is called for Wednesday, Dec. 2, at 10 a. m., at which time a report is desired from every member who solicited members for the library.

The Junior meeting will occur on Sunday at 3 p. m. and the men's meeting at 4 p. m.
